Another Terrible Riot in Cincinnati! Correspondence of The New-York Tribung.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, Jan. 11, 1842. Our city is at this moment in a state of tremondous excitement. Yesterday, after Banking hours, it was reported that the Miami Exporting Co. Bank and the Bank of Cincinnati, both old concerns, had stopped payment. This morning, at about 9 o'clock, a crowd in consequence stood before the door of the latter Bank, and a notice was soon hung out upon the door that they had suspended for twenty days. When the doors were opened to hang out this notice, a rush was made for the inside, and all its contents, consisting of desks, counters and vaults were broken and thrown into the street. Money to the amount of $224,000 was taken from the vault.

The mob then went to the Miami Bank, which they broke open and destroyed its contents. The Exchange Bank, adjoining the Miami, of which RUPT !!! " The Philadelphia United States John Bates, the well-known West Union financier, was an officer, was next assailed. A run was made upon him, and he continued to redeem all his is sues, until the mob broke in and destroyed every thing. Thence they crossed over to Loungee's office, who was godfather to the Savings Bank at Louisville. This was likewise destroyed and the crowd gathered to the corner of Third and Main streets. A strong disposition on the part of the happiness and public prosperity, and dangerous to mob was manifested to destroy the Traders and Mechanic's Bank; but they continued to redeem their notes, which were nothing more than certificates of deposite with promises to pay in current Bank notes, and thus escaped. How this most disgraceful riot will end, time only can show. A few of the military have been called out, but have effec ted little. They marched through the crowd with fixed bayonets, but were soon attacked and com son to rejoice in the recent and present progress of pelled to retreat. As they retired they were ordered to fire upon the mob which they did. Their gans were loaded with blank cartridges, however, piegress, viz: the earnest and welcome labors of and only two or three were slightly injured. Cinthe reformed themselves, demand our devout cinnati is disgraced forever in the eyes of those thanks, and we rejoice in the hope that here "the who love order and respect the laws. There is as mong our people no sympathy, to be sure, for those persons who are concerned in resuscitating wing of affectionate regard we extend the hand these rotten concerns, but every one is indignant at the method of evincing resentment.

The authorities seem to be lamentably inactive. ming known through their personal and melan- Many people think that they could have effected dely experience, the horrible evils that pertain to nothing if they had tried; but others allege that, had they been, promptly on the spot, they could easily have prevented the disgrace. The scene of the operations of the mob is not twice a stone's throw from the Mayer's office. 'The indignation of the citizens was greatly aroused some two or ed by their countenance, counsel, and earnest but three weeks since by the explosion of the Lebanon Miami Bank, some thirty miles from the city. This Resolved, 5. That the peculiar state of the pub is probably one cause of the outbreak; yet those who have taken the most active part in it are those who have nothing to lose. At present the arm of the law is palsied, and the honor of the Queen City is tarnished for years.

Five o'clock .- 'The crowd is still great, but the med that Woodstock be the place and the 2d mob have ceased active operations. Several of them have been arrested, and are now in jail. About $24,000 were found about their persons .-There will be a strong guard out to-night to protect the Banks that are in good repute. Threats were thrown out against the Life Insurance and Trust Company; but they continue to pay specie for their notes, and will probably escape.

> Six o'clock .- All is quiet, and if it continue thus all will be well. A strong guard has been ordered out to prevent farther depredatons.

> TUESDAY, Jan. 12. All is quiet this morning. The issuers of shinplasters look blue as they see the fragments of their 'fixins' scattered in the street.

A BANKRUPT TREASURY.

The Sentinel copies nearly a column of large capital letters and exclamation points from a late number of the Boston Post, announcing the fact that the Treasury is bankrupt. "The National Treasury is Bankrupt! and that in eight short months after the Whig party came into power !!' exclaims the Post, in wonder and amazement at the astounding disclosure And the Sentinel rolls up the white of his eyes, in holy horror, and ech oes back the exclamation with hands unlifted,-"THE NATIONAL TREASURY IS BANK-Gazette takes off the hypocritical cant of the Post by the following capital story:-

'Mistress,' said honest Betsey, the servant maid, want a new broom, if you please ma'n. 'A new broom, Betsey! why, where is that which you have been using?'

'It's all worn out to the handle ma'm.' 'Worn out indeed! What shocking carelessness! Why, Kitty, your predecessor, used it it for nearly two years, and now you, who have not had the broom in use a month, complain that it is all worn out!-What shocking extravagance !!!

Thus it is with the Tories. After having enjoy ed uninterrupted possession of power for twelve long years-after having issued millions of Treasu ry notes, which they could not redeem, and con tracted an enormous debt which they left for their successors to pay, when at last the People compel them to deliver up the keys of their empty iron safes and scout them from office with derision and scorn, they turn round upon their successors, roll up their eyes in devout astonishment, and exclaim respective duties on this subject. with distressing agony, "Behold the fruits of Whig ascendency!" "THE NATIONAL TREASURY IS BANKRUPT !!!"-Burlington Free Press.

"What do you charge for board?" asked a tall Green Mountain boy, as he walked up to the bar of a second rate hotel in New York-, what do you ask a week for board and lodging?' 'Five dollars.' Five dollars! that's too much; but I s'pose you'll allow for the times I am absent from dinner and sup per?' Certainly-thirty seven and a half cents each. Here the conversation ended, and the Yankee took up his quarters for two weeks. During this time he lodged and breakfasted at the hotel, but did not take either dinner or supper, saying that his business detained him in another part of the town At the expiration of the two weeks, he again walked up to the bar and said, 'S'pose we settle that account- I'm going in a few minutes'-Whereupon the landlord handed him his bill-Two weeks' board at $5-$10.' 'Here stranger, said the Yankee, 'this is wrong-you've made a mistake; you've not deducted the times I was absent from dinner and supper-14 days, 2 meals per day-28 meals at 37 1-2 cents each-$10,50. If you've not got the fifty cents change that's due me. I'll take a drink, and the balance in segars.

She possessed an uncommonly amiable fisposition-a cultivated mind, and an agreeable person and manners. She possessed much native, kindness, simplicity and sincerity of mind, and ease and gracefulness of manners which rendered her the delight of all her friends and acquaintances. She appeared to love every body and all loved her in turn. Few and perhaps none were more univer sally beloved and esteemed. For some months previous to her decease she was afflicted with a painful disease, (the dropsy,) which she bore with calmness and resignation to the very last. She saw her sun daily declining and the day of her life perceptibly drawing to its close, not only with composure but with joy, for she was a christian .-There was evidently a great change in her views and feelings some months previous to her departure -like others of her age she was formerly fond of gay companions and amusements which she greatly lamented in her last days, -though she was not more so than what is common for young people. She constantly appeared to regret the time she had spent in this way and the influence she had had upon others and desired her surrounding friends to warn her young associates to avoid sinful company and amusements and to attend to the things of religion. Her dissolution was gradual, and she seemed to see with intuitive certainty the events that were to take place and her final end. She considered her disease incurable from the very first and only desired that she might be prepared for the event, she asked of the Lord time for preparation and the gracious influences of his spirit upon her heart to purify and sanctify her and she would wil lingly go whenever he should call her away. Her desires were answered, and she gave evidence to all that she was prepared for higher and purer
